FRAUD, LIES AND DOCUMENTS

The journalist Hans-Martin Tillack went to Brussels to do what he thought was his job. He ended up in jail and in trouble with the European Commission. Story continues overleaf...
